Comment:

CB Fry was an outstanding natural athlete who excelled in many sports, including boxing, golf, swimming, sculling, and tennis. He played soccer for England (he was full back for Southampton in the F.A. Cup final of 1902) and represented Oxford University in the 100 yards and long jump (he held the world record for more than 20 years). Only an injury prevented him from earning his blue for Rugby. His astonishing versatility was summed up by a friend who asked (in reply to Fry's remark that, at 70, he might become involved in horse racing), "What as, Charles? Trainer, jockey or horse?"

Fry's enormous talents extended to other fields, including international politics. He was a brilliant classical scholar, and became a respected journalist and author. Fry became commander of the training ship 'Mercury', spent some time as Ranjitsinhji's colleague at the League of Nations, and as he recorded in his biography 'Life Worth Living', he was "mentioned" for the position of King of Albania!

Author AG (Johnnie) Moyes wrote "It is doubtful whether in the history of our race there has been another man who combined so amazingly an excellence of mind and body as did CB Fry".

Fry captained England 6 times for 4 wins (2 draws). His batting was criticised for being limited to front foot shots, but innings such as his 144 against Australia at The Oval in 1905 refuted this. Fry said "I may have only one stroke, but with it I can send the ball to 10 different parts of the field." Teammate Ranjitsinhji said "He can play on any wicket".

Fry's first-class career (30886 runs at 50.21, 165 wickets) spanned a remarkable 30 years (1892-1921). Fry made 94 centuries in
